

2 Days Workshop

CURRENCY DERIVATIVES MARKET

Overview

The ongoing journey of the Indian Rupee towards the gravity of the earth has put wrinkles on many temples as the same has burdened the foreign currency users with the multi-fold increased obligations. In last one year only Indian Rupee has depreciated more than 30% against US Dollar. This turmoil has left many with bruised hearts and financials.

This volatility and unrestrained behaviour of the Indian Rupee have itself highlighted the use of forex derivatives for hedging purposes. The field of forex derivatives trading requires expert skill-set to perform the task and its importance can be understood by the rising trading volumes at Indian Exchanges providing forex derivatives instruments such as currency futures and options.

In the FY 2012-13, MCX-SX currency derivatives segment's total turnover stands at Rs. 35,39,151.50 crores while National Stock Exchanges (NSE) registered the total turnover of 52,74,464.65 crores.

The opportunity remains for skilled and certified professionals with strong conceptual understanding of the segment, and who can explore opportunities for profitable trade using leverage provided by various currency derivatives instruments. This high-end requirement of the industry has led us to evolve the training module that inculcates this required skill sets and professional approach into the aspiring market players.
